We take care of the production workflow, from manuscript to publication

Working with Wearset

Wearset is a leading publishing services company with over 30 years' experience. Working with clients across a range of disciplines, we prepare hundreds of titles for publication each year, taking them from author's manuscript to final output, whether that's print or digital.

Over the past three decades we have developed from a small specialist typesetting service into a well-respected publishing services provider, working with a range of clients across the academic, educational and reference sectors.

Our approach

What sets us apart is our integrated approach. Our core in-house team of project managers, typesetters, illustrators and editorial staff work together seamlessly, to refine titles accurately and efficiently – just what you need when you're looking to deliver a high-quality publication on budget and to schedule.

Our back catalogue includes everything from specialist textbooks to research publications, edited collections and multi-volume works.

- academic titles
- educational textbooks (GCSE, A Level and Higher Education)
- learning resources for teachers and lecturers
- research reports
- journals
- online resources
- sporting titles
- promotional material

Academic

With vast experience of academic titles, we have developed an in-depth understanding of the demands of academic publishers and the needs of authors. Many titles are now produced under our full-service project management service, where schedules and budgets are agreed in advance and production responsibility is handed to Wearsset, meaning the publisher applies minimal resources during the production phase.

Education

In the rapidly changing school market, a successful series is not only founded upon high-quality content created to detailed specifications but, crucially, relies on precise delivery schedules and being first to market with new material.

We have expertise across a wide portfolio of products to support today's curriculum, from printed resources through to content for Virtual Learning Environments (VLEs). So whether you're looking to publish textbooks, teaching guides or study resources, our knowledge and experience, backed up by a strong quality management system, will add a superior, specialist finish to your product.

Reference

We take a thorough approach to the research and presentation of reference books. Working in tandem with authors and publishers, we aim to maximise the value to the reader by combining accuracy and reliability with clarity. Over the years we have produced reference publications in areas as diverse as pharmacology, finance, local history, sports and art history.

“We work with clients across a range of disciplines, to produce upwards of 500 titles per year.”

Our services

Project management

A dedicated project manager will provide you with a consistent point of contact. They will ensure your budget and schedules are met whilst liaising with you and your authors to make production as smooth as possible.

Typesetting

Our in-house typesetters have extensive experience of page design, layouts and technical requirements. We can create series designs and templates or work with you on bespoke layouts that match the content and readership.

Artwork

Our in-house studio take a flexible approach, matching the artwork requirements to your budget. We can redraw, enhance and convert visuals to create clear concise artwork that will complement your text.

Editorial

Our accredited editors have knowledge across all of the main academic subjects and will apply house styles, consistency and sense whilst retaining the unique essence of the author.

Quality management

Accuracy and rigor are applied by our quality team at each stage of the workflow to heighten the final quality of your product. Our quality management processes are constantly informed by feedback to ensure continual improvement.

Proofreading

We work with you to determine the optimal proofreading level for each title. Our proof-readers are highly methodical with a great eye for detail to ensure clarity of meaning. We also offer fact-checking, copyright screening and answer checking services.

Indexing

We offer a professional indexing service for all titles. Alternatively we can ensure an author-supplied version is compliant with the final content. Legal tabling services are also available.

Digital

From XML output to eBooks, many of our publications are created in digital as well as print-ready files. We use the latest technology to streamline workflow, continually reviewing our processes to anticipate customer needs.
